FAMILY RESCUED FROM FLOOD IN NORTHERN HANCOCK COUNTY

Hancock County officials on Sunday rescued a family of six and their beloved dog after flooding in the northern part of the county.

Hancock County emergency officials rescued a family of six their dog early Sunday morning after severe weather caused rising flood waters to threaten a Kiln community.

"They couldn't get out," Hancock County Emergency Management Deputy Director John Albert Evans said. "When they called in, they said the water was over the roof of their car."

With waters at least four feet deep -- maybe more in some areas of Road 328 off

Shaw Road, officials said they chose to launch a boat in order to get back into the area safely and rescue the stranded family.

"Those properties in there back up to the Wolf River," Evans said, "which is where the high tide came

Hancock County Officer Memorial Ceremony set for this Thursday

SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay St. Louis Police Department will host the annual Hancock County Officer Memorial Ceremony this Thursday, May 16, at 11 a.m., at the Hancock County Court House located at 152 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, Chief Gary Ponthieux Jr. said in a press release. The event is open to the community.

"Please come and join us to pay tribute to the officers that made the ultimate sacrifice while serving our community," Ponthieux said.

BWSD adopts updated uniform dress code policy

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Bay-Waveland School District Board of Trustees on Monday approved revisions to the district's dress code policy.

During public comments, parent Mickey Lagasse of Waveland asked the board to consider moving the uniform policy item off the consent agenda and gather parent input before making a decision.

Lagasse said that all three of his children play sports. He added that he spends "quite a bit of money" on shirts.

"We don't mind that," he said. "Typically, in the past, those shirts tend to last better than our uniform shirts that we buy."

The board agreed to move the item, "dress code changes" to the action agenda for discussion.

Lagasse said the "pride of the school shirts" make a "huge difference, as a parent, to what our district is about."

"Financially, it makes a huge difference when we have to buy a jumpsuit for dancing, a jumpsuit for cheer, a jumpsuit for soccer, and then softball," Lagasse said. "And then to turn around and buy another coat for school."

Trustee Mark Kidd asked why the gold color was being taken out of the uniform policy, considering it is one of the school's colors.

Deputy Superintendent Monty Noblitt said that he "rarely" see kids in gold school shirts.

"But when they do, you've got every color under the sun," he said. "It doesn't really present itself the way we want to present ourselves. We're trying to build an academic and athletic and arts dynasty. We want our school, we want our students to achieve at a level they haven't achieved at so far. And one of the things that we think will lead to that is the dress code. The fact is, if you walk in our schools right now, you can't tell what our dress code is."

According to the new dress code, students who participate in athletics or the arts "shall not be exempt from the student dress code except during pep rallies and/or performance."

Noblitt said that if the district is going to have a uniform policy, "we need to have a uniform, a true uniform."

Superintendent Sandra Reed added that the district needs to decide if its going to have a uniform policy or not.

In regards to T-shirts, such as club or athletic shirts, the current rule is that they are allowed after approval from principals, Noblitt said.

"Everybody's got a different T-shirt they can wear to school," he said. "They don't have to wear a collared shirt, ever. If they don't want to, a kid don't ever have to wear a collared shirt to school. They can wear a T-shirt to school every day of the week."

Lagasse said if you're going to the extent of doing it for "pride, then you go all the way, in my opinion." Lagasse also referenced the dress code enforced at St. Stanislaus.

"I believe in being consistent," he said. "If you're going to do that and going to consider a T-shirt, I would buy the T-shirts from y'all. The problem we have is that, I've spent $8 on a collared shirt and I've spent $35 per kid on a collared shirt, and they just don't hold up to the day-to-day beating. We do laundry 100 times a week and the T-shirts just seem to fare better than the other ones. If we're going to be a Stanislaus or an OLA, that's fine. We will buy the shirts that y'all tell us to buy, we'll show up."

Noblitt said that "it doesn't matter to me or all of us in general if we have a uniform policy. I'm not in favor or against. It doesn't matter to me, one way or the other."

Noblitt said he's worked in districts that did not and those that did have uniform policies.

"We're trying to build an academic and athletic and arts dynasty. We want our school, we want our students to achieve at a level they haven't achieved at so far. And one of the things that we think will lead to that is the dress code."

BWMS students tell city council about Magnolia Bayou project

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Several students from Bay-Waveland Middle School spoke to the Bay City Council last week about their efforts on Magnolia Bayou and the city's Martin Luther King Park.

Kelsey Johnson, community planner at Gulf Coast Community Design Studio, opened the remarks Tuesday.

The Gulf Coast Community Design Studio of Mississippi State University is leading a watershed education program with students at Bay Middle School and the Hancock County Unit of Boys and Girls Club, Johnson told councilmen.

Gigi Wheeler, science teacher at Bay-Waveland Middle School, also participated and attended Tuesday's meeting with her students.

"Program partners include unabridged Architecture and the Bay St. Louis Creative Arts Center," according to the information Johnson gave the council. "Students are learning about watershed dynamics, impacts of storm-water runoff on water quality and quantity, and the important role of watershed planning and action. Programming goes beyond STEM to STEAM and connects students with NOAA and other science professionals, as well as local art, design and service professionals.

"The project focuses on Magnolia Bayou, an important local urban waterway located close to both Bay Middle School and the Hancock County Unit of the Boys and Girls Club. "

Coastal research scientists from NOAA , EPA Gulf of Mexico Program, MS Wildlife Federation, along with other STEAM professionals, last month volunteered their time to do water quality testing with the 8th grade stu-

Hancock man sentenced to 35 years in prison for meth, child porn

SEA COAST ECHO

A 51-year-old Hancock County man must serve 15 years in prison on charges of possession of child pornography and methamphetamine, officials said.

Bruce Kevin Woods of Bay St. Louis, was sentenced last week to possession of methamphetamine and two counts of Exploitation of a Child associated with his possession of child pornography, District Attorney Joel Smith said in a press release Saturday.

"After receiving the guilty plea, Judge Lawrence Bourgeois sentenced Woods to 35 years and suspended 20 years," Smith said, "leaving 15 years to serve in the custody of the Mississippi Department of Corrections, with 10 years of post-release supervision after his release from prison." Woods pled guilty to the charges on April 15, in Bay St. Louis, but sentencing was delayed until last week, Smith said.

Woods was arrested on Oct. 16, 2017, after the Hancock County Sheriff's Office and Waveland Police Department initiated a joint investigation through the execution of a search warrant on his Woods' residence in Bayside Park.

"They located the defendant with methamphetamine and electronically stored sexually explicit images of children," Assisting District Attorney Chris Daniel, who prosecuted the case, said in the release. "Forensic analysis of computers and storage devices confirmed that Woods possessed over 4,000 images and videos of confirmed child pornography involving young children. In addition to the images, the defendant possessed costumes and toys associated with his sexual interests."

"During the defendant's plea and sentencing hearings he stated, '[I] know I was wrong,'" Smith said. "I will need help, if I ever get out. I have a lot of problems."

Because of the sexual nature of the crime, Smith said, the prison sentence must be served without the possibility of parole or early release.

Woods will also be required to register as a sex offender for the remainder of his life.

"We must never forget that demand created by possessors of child pornography leads to kidnappings, sexual assaults and the repeated victimization of children around the world," Smith said. "This case demonstrates the enduring commitment of local law enforcement to protect the children in our community."

dents from Bay - Waveland Middle School, Johnson said.

Several of the students shared the results of their studies and artwork with the council.

The program was made possible through funding from the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine.

Between February and May of this year, the Gulf Coast Community Design, unabridged Architecture and the Bay St. Louis Creative Arts Center have been doing after school programming with the Hancock County Unit of Boys and Girls Club. Just under 100 students from grades K through 12 participated in the programming. Students learned about the importance of urban habitats and the role of landscape design in enhancing our communities and coastal ecology.

The project focused on Martin Luther King, Jr. Park in Bay St. Louis and connections to Magnolia Bayou Watershed. Student work will be incorporated into a planting design for the park. Magnolia Bayou Watershed programming will continue with a summer program at the Hancock County Unit of the Boys and Girls Club and culminate with a community day of planting, education, art and fun in September at MLK Park.

Johnson and the students -- along with architect Allison Anderson -- also told the council about landscape designs for the Bay's Martin Luther King Park at the corner of Washington Street and Old Spanish Trail.

The students studied garden design, created their own ideas, made site plans, including drawings of plants and construction projects.

Allison Anderson and her husband John, owners of unabridged Architecture, designed a planting and green space project the Boys & Girls Club to prepare at the park. The Andersons also designed new parking facilities and a brick wall "to make the park more appealing and safer," Allison said. "We will do the planting in the fall because that's a better time to put plants in," she said; and Bay Council President Jeffery Reed will donate the bricks and labor to build the wall.

The passing of a legend

I've never met an animal I didn't like, and I can't say the same thing about people," Doris Day

On Monday, the world lost a true icon, Doris Day. I cannot think back on my introduction to classic cinema and musicals without remembering Doris Day's laugh, smile, and gift of song. She was a huge part of my childhood. When I heard of her passing on Monday morning, "Que Sera Sera" from the film, "The Man Who Knew Too Much" immediately started playing over and over again in my head.

The song, "The Windy City" from the film "Calamity Jane," also replayed in my head.

I enjoyed her films with some of Hollywood's top leading men like Rock Hudson, Cary Grant, Gordon MacRae, James Stewart, James Garner, and Frank Sinatra, just to name a few.

She was a brilliantly talented actress, singer, and animal activist.

In 1978, she founded the Doris Day Animal Foundation "to help animals and the people who love them."

As an animal lover myself, I applaud her efforts to find homes and care for animals.

But it's her music and films that were staples during my childhood.

I loved singing along with her and I have to give her some of the credit for my love of music and eventual participation in the Bay High School choir.

While I didn't know her personally, I still mourn the passing of one of the last greatest actresses of an era that brought about the best in cinema.

Today's movies disappoint me and I find myself saving a lot of time and money by skipping out on going to the movie theatre.

There is nothing nowadays that gives me the same euphoric feeling that a Doris Day film, or any other film from old Hollywood, did and still does.

Judging from the numerous posts on social media, Doris Day touched a lot of lives.

She was America's sweetheart and a great role model for many generations of movie watchers.

I'm glad we have her films to watch again and again. Countless animals will continue to benefit from her foundation.

Thank you Doris for the inspiration, the music, the laughter, the advocacy, and the memories.

Red Cross responds to weekend storms

Guest Column

By John McFarland

Once again Red Cross volunteers spent a holiday responding to disasters in Mississippi.

Severe storms across most of Mississippi caused flooding in Pearl River, Stone, Harrison and other Southeast Mississippi counties over the Mothers' Day weekend. The flooding in Pearl River County was so severe it caused a freight train to derail. Fortunately, there were no injuries as a result of the derailment.

While damage assessment won't be complete until tomorrow at the earliest, I can't give you a meaningful estimate of the number of households impacted. But as the waters recede, our damage assessment volunteers are out going street by street to assess the damage and we'll provide the appropriate assistance to those impacted.

For now, we opened shelters in Poplarville and Wiggins on Saturday, with a third shelter in Picayune on standby. On Sunday we opened another shelter in Saucier. These shelters were opened at the request of the Pearl River, Stone and Harrison county emergency managers. As always, when county officials order shelters open, Red Cross volunteers immediately respond to set up and staff those shelters.

Today we were able to close all but the Stone County shelter, which is currently being moved from Stone County High School to a larger elementary school building as the Stone County emergency manager expects the population in that shelter to grow due to continued flash flooding.

In addition to the damage in Southeast Mississippi, there was also significant flooding and wind damage in Southwest Mississippi, with a shelter opened in Pike County.

These storms come on the heels of several other storms that have impacted Mississippi since Dec. 27 – including an unprecedented 83 tornadoes in four months. Prior to Saturdays storms, Mississippi Red Cross volunteers have hosted more than 300 overnight stays in shelters, distributed 31,500 meals and snacks, completed 1,150 health and mental health contacts, and distributed more than 5,700 emergency relief items and over $300,000 in emergency financial assistance to over 1,600 Mississippi families since January.

We continue to aggressively recruit and train new volunteers, including at our last Friday-of-the-month open house in the Gulfport office. Training and engaging new volunteers is important to avoid overworking those volunteers who have been so busy since last August when we began deployments to assist in Hurricane Florence and Hurricane Michael relief, followed by the multiple Mississippi storms and floods since December. And the 2019 Hurricane season is less than one month away.

Your continued assistance in recruiting volunteers and helping raise the funds to finance these disaster responses is always appreciated.

John McFarland is the Executive Director of the Southeast Mississippi Chapter of the America Red Cross

National Safe Boating Week

National Safe Boating Week is May 18 ? 24, 2019. To enhance the boating experience and educate the public regarding boat safety, the National Safe Boating Council (NSBC) was organized in September 1958, under the name National Safe Boating Committee. The NSBC currently has a membership of over 330 organizations, all with an interest in boating safety and education.

With the warm weather, everyone is ready to get out and enjoy the sunshine and have some fun on Mississippi's hundreds of thousands of acres and miles of water. Just remember to be safe. Always wear sunscreen, protective clothing and stay hydrated.

When going out on the water in a boat, there are safety rules.

First and foremost, be sure everyone onboard has a proper fitting life jacket and they wear it! Do not put an adult size life jacket on a child because it can easily slip off.

An accident can happen unexpectedly and very quickly. According to the most recent U.S. Coast Guard statistics, nearly three-fourths of fatal boating accident victims drown. Out of those who drowned, 84 percent were not wearing a life jacket.

In case of an emergency, you need to communicate with someone back on land details of your outing – who is on the boat, where you will be and how long you plan to be gone.

Be aware of the current and forecasted weather for your outing. Water conducts electricity so it is important not to be boating during an approaching storm.

Never operate a boat while or after drinking alcohol. You are not only putting yourself in danger but also everyone else in your boat and on the water.

Alcohol will limit your judgment of distance and decision making. Operating a boat under the influence of alcohol is illegal in all 50 states and is a violation of Federal law.

All boat engines produce carbon monoxide (CO) – an odorless, colorless, poisonous gas that can kill you in a matter of minutes.

You do not have to be inside the boat to be at risk. Many have died from exposure on the swim platforms of boats and in other areas where CO exhaust may accumulate or be emitted. Be aware of the early symptoms (irritated eyes, headache, nausea, weakness and dizziness).

Knowing the nautical rules of the water is important when crossing, meeting or over taking another boat.

Last, but not least, take a safe boating course.

The top five primary contributing factors in accidents are attributed to operator factors – such as failure to pay attention, carelessness, excessive speed, inexperience, recklessness and failure to watch for hazards. Boating safety courses are available, inexpensive and quick – a great way for you to learn safety and the rules on the water.

The University of Southern Mississippi Joins Newly Formed $94-Million Ocean Exploration Institute

SEA COAST ECHO

The University of Southern Mississippi (USM) is joining four other nationally renowned ocean science institutions to form The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Ocean Exploration Cooperative Institute (OECI).

USM's School of Ocean Science and Engineering (SOSE), Ocean Exploration Trust, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, University of New Hampshire, and the University of Rhode Island will work with NOAA's Office of Ocean Exploration and Research (OER) to survey an estimated 3 billion acres of submerged U.S. territory.

"The partnership with these four other nationally renowned ocean science institutions speaks volumes about The University of Southern Mississippi's reputation in ocean science and engineering," said Dr. Gordon Cannon, Vice President for Research at USM. "We've worked hard to build this reputation and are grateful to have received strong support from the State of Mississippi, the Gulf Coast and our own University leadership."

In joining OECI, USM is initially set to receive $11.25 million over five years to fund a multitude of ocean science projects including much needed exploration of the Gulf of Mexico.

"The collaborative partnership with NOAA and the four other institutions as well as the associated funding will allow USM to advance our research in developing advanced underwater technologies that fit well with our current international research profile," said Dr. Cannon.

SOSE harnesses elements from key areas of USM, including the Division of Marine Science (DMS) at the John C. Stennis Space Center, the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, and the University's fleet of research vessels, to create a regionally, nationally and internationally recognized leader in marine science.

"I am proud of how The University of Southern Mississippi's research profile continues to expand, especially as it relates to our ocean science and engineering programs that support our state's 'Blue Economy,'" said University President Rodney D. Bennett. "This new partnership validates why USM is classified as an R1 institution and confirms our ability to conduct meaningful research with some of the leading institutions in the nation. I look forward to the work that will emerge from this partnership and how it will impact our state and beyond."

The primary goal of OECI is to provide NOAA access to powerful academic research capabilities located at the individual institutions. In this program, researchers are focusing on areas that will improve the efficiency and effectiveness of ocean exploration in deep and remote areas of the U.S. Exclusive Economic Zone. This will be done through new robotics and telepresence approaches.

"The Ocean Exploration Cooperative Institute will be the next quantum leap for USM and the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast in ocean science and engineering," said Dr. Monty Graham, SOSE director and USM Lead Investigator for OECI. "We are rapidly becoming one of this country's elite oceanographic centers, and the growth we are experiencing should give the USM community, the Coast and the state great pride in how we have all worked together to increase our 'Blue Economy' and all the opportunities around it."

OECI's research data and information will be readily usable by the public, which aims to increase participation of underrepresented populations in ocean exploration.

"This program will be transformative to our ongoing efforts at USM to move Mississippi's 'Blue Economy' forward by providing STEM-related education that feeds STEM-related economic growth," Dr. Graham said. "The innovative new research capabilities will also help USM attract the best and brightest ocean science faculty and students."

Some of the educational benefits for South Mississippi include: technical training for autonomous vehicles, information technology and telepresence, STEM education opportunities for local schools, and telepresence of ocean exploration to USM's Marine Education Center and the Mississippi Aquarium through USM's ongoing partnership.

"I am pleased to hear of NOAA's selection of The University of Southern Mississippi as one of the institutions that will perform research as part of the OECI," said Gov. Phil Bryant. "I welcome these funds to help us continue to focus on building a strong foundation on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Mississippians have embraced the Blue Economy with all our energy and ingenuity."

Gov. Bryant said the OECI allows Mississippi to play a pivotal role in the future of ocean exploration and education.

"This Institute will allow Southern Miss to collaborate with entities all across the country on ocean exploration and at the same time provide a holistic plan to strengthen Mississippi's long-term blue economy strategy," he said. "I applaud their efforts."

USM is also teaming with Tuskegee University to train STEM students from underrepresented communities in unmanned technologies for ocean exploration, including both maritime and aerial drones, and to provide experiences both on shore and at sea as a means to attract them into employment pipelines within and beyond the cooperative institute.

Congressman Steven Palazzo believes the data from the OECI's missions will be invaluable to the public understand of our seafloors, something that until now, has remained a mystery.

"USM continues to lead in strategic data acquisition and advancing the understanding of our seafloors," he said. "USM has proved they're capable in developing purposeful usage of unmanned maritime systems, and I have no doubt they will continue to excel in this undertaking. They are very deserving of this selection to form the Ocean Exploration Cooperative Institute and will continue advancing our understanding of America's underwater territory."

Dr. Robert Ballard, known for his 1985 discovery of the RMS Titanic, is the Lead Investigator for the Ocean Exploration Trust, and will open a third operating base at the Port of Gulfport for Dr. Ballard's Ocean Exploration Trust, which also operates out of Rhode Island and California.

"The University of Southern Mississippi's School of Ocean Science and Engineering is playing a leadership role in helping to develop new applications for Ocean Exploration and Educational Outreach particularly for underserved members of our population," he said. "The team we have put together is the present and future of ocean exploration."

Senator Roger Wicker believes this project isn't just a great opportunity for USM, but for the entire Gulf Coast.

"This partnership with NOAA is an example of The University of Southern Mississippi's continued excellence in marine research and engineering," Wicker said. "I was glad to support USM's application for this project because I know the technology we develop in Mississippi will advance America's knowledge of our ocean territory and improve opportunities for our brilliant faculty, researchers, and students on the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

About The University of Southern Mississippi

The University of Southern Mississippi (USM) is a comprehensive public research institution delivering transformative programs on campuses in Hattiesburg and Long Beach, at teaching and research sites in central and southern Mississippi, as well as online.

Founded in 1910, USM is one of only 130 universities in the nation to earn the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education's "R1: Doctoral Universities - Very high research activity" designation, and its robust research enterprise includes experts in ocean science and engineering, polymer science and engineering, and sport venue safety and security, among others.

USM is also one of only 40 institutions in the nation accredited in theatre, art and design, dance and music.

As an economic driver, USM generates an annual economic impact of more than $600 million across the state. USM welcomes a diverse student body of approximately 15,000, representing 71 countries, all 50 states, and every county in Mississippi. USM students have collected four Truman Scholarships and 35 National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowships, while also leading Mississippi with 24 Goldwater Scholarships, an honor that recognizes the next generation of great research scientists.

Home to the Golden

Eagles, USM competes in 17 Division I sports sponsored by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). For more information, visit usm.edu.

Uniform

"I'm not going to say one's better than the other," he said. "But the districts I worked in with a uniform policy, that had a rigid uniform policy, that made for a much more orderly school. It makes it easier on the teacher to know whether or not a kid is in dress code or not."

Noblitt said the last thing he wants teachers worrying about is whether or not a student's shirt is allowed.

Nicole Menotti, director of curriculum and instruction, said that she "really believes in a uniform policy and that it makes a huge educational difference."

The board approved the updated uniform policy 3-to 2. Trustees Casey Favre, Vicki Arnold, and Ann Lathrop voted "yes." Trustees Kidd and Mike Bell voted "no."

A copy of the dress code can be found at the end of the story.

In other action:

- Reed recognized Bay High School Special Education teacher Liz Bosarge, a recipient of this year's Hancock-Whitney Leo Seal Innovative Teacher award. Reed said Bosarge was selected for her project that was centered around having a coffee shop run by her students for faculty and staff at the high school.

- Reed also recognized North Bay Elementary fourth-grader Mason Bosarge. Mason competed in NBE's National Geography Bee and won, Reed said. He then competed in the state's National Geographic GeoBee held in Oxford. He competed against 40 other students, ranging in age from fourth-to-eighth-grade.

Reed said that while Mason didn't place, he was only two questions away from the final round. He was one of two fourth-graders competing at the state level, she added.

- Reed said that the district received the preliminary third-grade reading gate results.

"The date is extremely dirty," she said. "It's not officially embargoed, but it's unofficially embargoed. The results are not where we would like to be. However, we are, across-the-board, about 10 points ahead of where we were last year. We're definitely not going to be the lowest score on the coast as we were last year."

Reed said that a number of students will have to retest next week.

- Reed said the district plans to implement a summer school program for those students who did not pass and a grant-funded summer reading program at Waveland Elementary.

- Reed announced that next school year, the district will be able to fund meals for high school students.

- The board approved a motion to solicit bids for the multi-purpose sport training facility.

STUDENT DRESS CODE VENDORS

The student dress code policy is a "generic" one in that the dress code allows parents the convenience of purchasing the basics from any store or catalog of their choice.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Each student has the responsibility to dress appropriately for the school environment. Wearing apparel, hair, and general appearance shall not disrupt the school environment, shall not be unusually provocative, or shall not violate health and safety rules of the school. Any chains used to attach wallets or as decoration are prohibited. All tattoos must be covered.

2. Head coverings, including but not limited to bandannas, "doo" rags, hair curlers, or any "gang" paraphernalia, is prohibited. Exceptions to any head covering may include a hair net or cap required where long hair poses a health or safety threat near open flames, moving machines, or in food preparation classes where or when recommended by a physician. ## Hancock names Gayden as new volleyball coach

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

There is a changing of the guard in Kiln at Hancock High School in the volleyball program.

Hancock Athletic Director Jamie Sisco has announced that Lysie Byrd Gayden has been named the head volleyball coach for the 2019-20 academic year pending board approval on May 20.

Gayden takes over for Rick Rechtiem who had mentored the program for the last four seasons. Rechtiem led the Hawks to a four-year record of 109-32 with four division titles, two state finals appearances and the 2016 Class III state championship.

Gayden prepped at Ocean Springs High School and graduated in 2013. She played two years of volleyball for the Lady Greyhounds under Amanda Bailey while also playing basketball for then-head coach Jamie Sisco, and ran track and field for Ocean Springs doing the mile, discus and shot put. During her prep career, Gayden helped lead the Lady Greyhounds to a 51-18 record and the 2012 division championship. In 2011, Gayden was part of the Lady Greyhounds team that finished second to Hancock in the division and advanced to the playoffs where Ocean Springs bounced the Lady Hawks from the postseason with a 3-0 sweep in the second round. Ocean Springs lost to Tupelo in the third round in five games.

In 2012, the Lady Greyhounds won the division title and advanced to the postseason where they again pushed Hancock out of the playoffs in the second round in five games. Ocean Springs lost in the third round to DeSoto Central in four games.

After graduation, Gayden played two years of collegiate volleyball for Birmingham-Southern. She later completed her degree with Colorado State University.

Hancock athletic director Jamie Sisco commented, "Hancock is very excited to welcome Lysie Byrd Gayden to our school district. We are fired up to have someone with her volleyball pedigree and overall athletic background on our staff. She is a great person who will be a solid influence on our student athletes."

Gayden, a first-year head coach, inherits a talented squad at Hancock, one that advanced to the Final Four in Class III last year.

Gayden commented, "I am extremely excited to begin this next step with Hancock High School. I am familiar with the school and the type of athlete they have here. I have not met the team as of yet but I am looking forward to conducting tryouts and getting to know the girls. I know the girls have a strong fundamental foundation using the Gold Medal Squares. Once we have tryouts, I will know more what area we will need to focus on prior to the season."

Gayden talked about the importance of passing in her offensive philosophy and the range of options with the proper pass. On defense, Gayden maintained that she always wants two blockers on the ball and the defense will move to the hit.

While the schedule for the 2019 season has been made, Gayden stated that in-state opponents are extremely important so that one will know the opponent; however, she also emphasized that seeing a new look from an out-of-state opponent helps broaden the horizon. After this first season, Gayden will have more control of the schedule.

Gayden spoke briefly about the summer program, "We will have open gym sessions during the month of June. In July we will sponsor a youth camp that the team members will work. Two weeks before the season begins, we will implement a boot camp conditioning session to get ready for the grind."

Gayden will be teaching special education this coming school year as part of her contractual duties.

Gayden ended, "I am very passionate about the game of volleyball. I love the sport and I want the team to love the sport the way I do. I want the team to love practice and not dread it."

Gayden has a three year-old daughter, Leena.

For those of us who love to take in the gridiron, the last two weeks have been a mild cleansing of the soul to get us ready for the grind of summer as we await the Friday Night Lights to illuminate the fall skies.

The Bay High Tigers and the Pass Christian Pirates both closed out their spring football drills. Each school also broke in a new head coach that is taking the helm of the program in the fall.

Both teams elected to forego a spring game with a different opponent and suit up for an intersquad scrimmage on Saturday.

Bay High

The Tigers wrapped up their first spring under new head coach Eric Collins. He enters his first season at the helm of the Tigers' program but it is not his first rodeo as a head coach. Collins has 30-plus years of head coaching experience in Mississippi and Louisiana, most recently at Iberville High School.

Collins inherits a squad that went 1-9 last year but returns several promising players. Collins commented, "Each and every school is different. The kids here want to win. The administration here is all in on giving the program what it needs to be successful. We have been working very hard since the first day in the weight room. The players are beginning to understand what is required of them on the field, in the weight room and in the school building with academics. When I was at PRC, we did not have a lot of talent but we had a belief that we could win. We have that belief to win here. We are beginning to see the changes our short time together has created."

The Tigers ended spring with a very controlled Blue and White game. The #1-offense ran 10 plays followed by the #1-defense with 10 plays. Then, the two squads had a running clock half game of football managed by referees.

Jordan Calomese, a tight end/defensive end, had a solid spring coming off the edge. Seth Russo, Nathan Fleming and Shennard Lombard and Sam Sheppard all had solid springs for the Tigers.

Collins continued, "We saw some good things from some guys over the course of spring and trying to get to know each other. As spring drills come to a close, we enter perhaps the most important portion of the year, summer. This is a time for weight training, conditioning and perfecting our offense and defense. It will be an intense summer full of work preparing for Friday nights beginning in August."

The Tigers will be playing nine games this fall beginning August 23rd with West Harrison.

Pass Christian

The Pass Christian Pirates are also coming off a 1-9 campaign in 2018 and are breaking in first-year head coach Blake Pennock.

Pennock previously served as offensive coordinator at Class 6A Clinton

High School.

Pennock likes to run an offense that is built off of the zone read option scheme triggered by the quarterback.

Pennock will have an experienced starter Dustin Allison. Pennock commented, "Dustim Allison possesses a decent running game and passing game which will be very important to our success on offense. We rely heavily on the quarterback to handle the key duties to determine where the ball will be going. Dustin will have some weapons surrounding him on offense. On defense we want to be both fast and physical."

The Pirates played a controlled scrimmage Red vs White with a running clock on Saturday afternoon with the red team defeating the white team 40-22.

The offense showed a nice mixture of runs and passes. Andrew Moffett and Dylan Necaise each caught touchdown passes. Huu Nguyen showed a more powerful running style than this past year.

Others standing to Pennock included Sebastian Setzer, Bryson Adams and Reese Gorman.

Pennock added, "Now that we have gotten to know each other, we will increase the intensity this summer perfecting our offensive and defensive installs. So far, we have only input about 60%. We will have some 7-on-7 work in June and July will focus on us. We have to remain healthy throughout the summer and season. If we are able to do that we have a chance to be successful each Friday night."

The Pirates will travel for a jamboree on August 16 against Gaugier and will open up with Long Beach on August 23.

The ritual of Friday Night Under the Lights is just a mere 14 Fridays away. The Hancock Hawks host a spring jamboree with Long Beach and Poplarville tomorrow at 4:30pm and St. Stanislaus will conclude their spring drills on Friday at 4:30pm.

Can we wait till August 16th when jamborees hit the scene in full force? Time will tell for those itching to get back out the turf. Stay tuned!

As of Monday evening, Evans said, the waterway had lowered drastically, but was still over the road. Officials will continue to keep a close eye on things which are expected to be back to normal by Thursday.

The high tides did not only impact residents in both Hancock and Harrison counties, but many motorists, as well, since waters were high enough to close a large portion of Menger Ave, just north of the bridge.

Harrison County workers were also tasked with cleaning up debris this week on Cable Bridge Road, which caused even more headaches for those who live and were traveling in the area.

On May 8, high school juniors participating in the Hancock Youth Leadership Academy continued their exploration of economic development in Hancock County. Their first visit was to Port Bienville, a 3600-acre park home to 18 industries and employing 1200 workers in Hancock County.

The park boasts a Short Line Railroad with CSX interchange, 15 miles of rail infrastructure, deep water access and close proximity to the interstate system.

SABIC Innovative Plastics sponsored the session which included a tour of their facility. Students were able to get an up-close look at the international company that produces plastic pellet material used in items such as car bumpers and electronics.

Next, the students traveled to Stennis Airpark, which encompasses 1800 acres, including Stennis International Airport and several domestic and foreign companies.

Their first stop was to Hot Sticks Manufacturing Company. Hot Sticks is a leading manufacturer of customized drumsticks and imprinted bats and pens.

The original Hot Sticks were the first to offer a variety of brightly colored models, and were the only major drumsticks that incorporated a proprietary dry grinding process to protect the integrity of the wood during production.

You have to spend money to Make money.

IT'S NOT JUST A SAYING...THE PROOF IS IN BLACK AND WHITE.

[muhn-ee], n.

1. any circulating medium of exchange, including coins, paper money, and demand deposits.

You have to spend money to Make money.

This is a common English saying. It means that it's hard to make money in a business without investing some money in supplies, products, advertisement or other business expenses.

Who wants to hear that? Probably no one. The truth hurts.

Owning a business is tough. No one ever said it was easy. In owning a business, your goal is to be recognized and successful. Why put in all of the hard work to be basically "invisible"? You see ads that run regularly. These businesses are successful. They're seen weekly whether it be to a flashy logo or an attractive female/male model. The point is that the business is getting noticed. A common phrase heard among salesman and ad representatives is this: "We don't have the money to advertise". Sorry to be blunt, but you probably won't ever have "extra" money if you're unknown. Advertisements in the newspaper can pay big dividends if they are targeted to the right markets and presented in a way that encourages readers to buy.

You need to Know Your Audience. While younger Americans aren't the newspaper readers that their parents and grandparents are, print still offers a way of reaching key demographics. According to a study prepared for the Newspaper Association of America, 65.6 percent of respondents read the newspaper at least once in the past week, and that number rises to 72.6 percent of adults aged 55 and over. Print media is accessed by both genders, with 60.8 percent of each having read a newspaper over the past seven days. If those figures match your target marketing audience, it makes sense to use print to reach them.

Location, Location, Location... Location can't be stressed enough. Newspapers offer the ability to target your ads to better reach a specific customer base. For example, if you're selling sports equipment, advertising on TV during the NFL playoffs is likely cost-prohibitive and may reach many viewers with no intention of buying your wares. A small advertisement in your local sports section has the potential to catch the eye of football fans in your area, getting the local sports fans attention at a fraction of the cost. Make sure your ad is in the right spot in the paper. You're likely to have better luck selling musical instruments in the entertainment section of the paper than in the business or food sections.

Rummage sale set at Ruth's Roots on June 8

SEA COAST ECHO

Elise Deano will host a rummage sale on June 8 at her law office to benefit Ruth's Roots, the fabulous community garden she and volunteers started three years ago.

"Please consider donating your spring cleaning items to us," Deano said. "Clean out your attic, your storage shed, your garage! Items can be dropped off at my office. Thank you to those that have already dropped off!"

"We are accepting everything. However, clothing is difficult to display and organize. We will gladly accept your clothing, but here is what we are doing with it: 1.). Children's clothing will be passed on to Kimberly Marquar Adam-Boushie who runs a clothing closet for foster kids. Often children are dropped off with no clothing or just one outfit and the foster parents are left scrambling to find clothes. This will help the children and the foster parents and makes my heart happy; 2.). Men and Women's work clothes (suits, dress slacks, blouses, button-downs, etc.) will be given to Karen Stobbs Aderer to put at USM's clothing closet for folks entering or returning to the workplace that need outfits; and 3.) all other clothing will be given to Jacob's Well thrift store ( Jossette Staten Thompson, Susan Haynes Johnson) Their sales support the recovery center they run for both men and women. I have a passion for helping people overcome addiction, and these folks and their work/mission is amazing."

PEOPLE WHO READ NEWSPAPERS AND PEOPLE WHO HAVE MONEY HAVE ONE THING IN COMMON.

Newspaper ads, both print and online, play a key role in helping people make their banking and investment decisions.

Newspapers and their sites outperform all other media in engaging people, including high-income adults, Boomers, Business Decision Makers and even Millennials

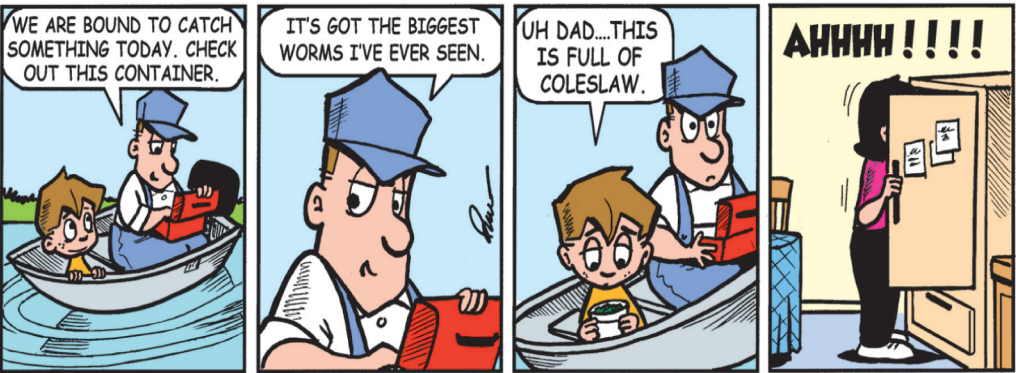

All of which makes advertising in newspapers a very smart move.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 encourages Bay/Waveland to honor fallen warriors on May 25, National Poppy Day

SEA COAST ECHO

Bay St. Louis ----Honor our fallen warriors and contribute to the continuing needs of our veterans on National Poppy Day®, Saturday, May 25th from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. in front of Walmart when members of American Legion Auxiliary (ALA) Unit 139 will distribute bright red poppies in exchange for a donation. The Flanders Fields poppy has become an internationally known and recognized symbol of the lives sacrificed in war and the hope that none died in vain. The American Legion Family called upon Congress to proclaim the Friday before Memorial Day as National Poppy Day, which was officially designated as such in 2017.

“Wearing the poppy on National Poppy Day and throughout Memorial Day weekend is one small way to honor and remember our fallen warriors who willingly served our nation and made the ultimate sacrifice for our freedom,” said ALA Unit 139 President Katy Gift. “We must never forget.”

The poppy also honors hospitalized and disabled veterans who handcraft many of the red, crepe paper flowers. Making the poppies provides a financial and therapeutic benefit to the veterans, as well as a benefit to thousands of other veterans.

When the American Legion Family adopted the poppy as its memorial flower in the early 1920s, the blood-red icon became an enduring symbol of honor for the sacrifices of our veterans from the battlefields of France in World War I to today’s global war on terror. The American Legion Auxiliary raises about $4 million each year distributing poppies throughout the nation, with 100 percent of the funds raised going directly to help veterans, military, and their families.

For more information, call Agnes Dalton, Acting Public Relations for Unit 139 at 601-746-6020.

Founded in 1919, the American Legion Auxiliary (ALA) helps to advance the mission of The American Legion. It is the world’s largest women’s patriotic service organization and one of the nation’s most prominent supporters of veterans, military, and their families. ALA members volunteer millions of hours annually, with a value averaging $1 billion each year. From helping to draft the GI Bill in 1944 to advocating for veterans on Capitol Hill, The American Legion Family has been instrumental in advancing legislation that improves the quality of life for our nation’s veterans. The annual Senior Health and Information Fair is scheduled for May 15 at the Bay St. Louis Community Center.

The event is sponsored by the SALT Council, the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, the Area Agency on Aging, and the Hancock County Senior Center.

SALT Council chairman Jim Thriffiley said the fair is one of many of the organizations host for senior citizens throughout the year.

Other events include the senior prom, fish fries, and programs that help seniors understand their circumstances, Thriffiley said.

The programs are made possible through grants obtained by the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, he added.

Each year, vendors attend the fair with informational booths.

"We are still in need of vendors for this year's fair," Hancock County Senior Citizen Director Arlene Johnson said.

In addition to informational booths, the fair will also feature giveaways and

Communication Disorders among Most Common Childhood Disabilities

Parents encouraged to learn warning signs, seek help early during Better Hearing and Speech Month

SEA COAST ECHO

With 11 percent of children ages 3-6 having a speech, language, voice or swallowing disorder and almost 15 percent of school-age children experiencing some degree of hearing loss, communication disorders are among the most common disabilities in children nationwide.

During May, which is Better Hearing and Speech Month, Vishakha Rawool, chair of the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at University of Mississippi, urges families to learn the early signs of these disorders and seek an assessment if they have concerns.

"Communication disorders are treatable, yet all too often, we find parents are waiting longer than we'd like to bring their child in for an evaluation," Rawool said. "Timely intervention is important, as untreated speech-language and hearing disorders can lead to problems with reading and writing, academic success, social interactions, behavioral problems and more."

"These disorders are highly treatable and, in some cases, can be reversed or even prevented. So our message to parents is: If you have any concern, don't wait and see if there is a change. Trust your instincts and get it checked out."

Hearing loss is evaluated and treated by audiologists. Speech and language disorders are evaluated and treated by speech-language pathologists. Warning signs of these disorders include:

LANGUAGE DISORDERS

Does not smile or interact with others (birth and older)

Does not babble (4-7 months)

Makes only a few sounds or gestures, such as pointing (7-12 months)

Says only a few words (12-18 months)

Words are not easily understood (18 months-2 years)

Does not put words together to make sentences (1.5-3 years)

Has trouble playing and talking with other children (2-3 years)

Has trouble with early reading and writing skills (2.5-3 years)

Speech Sound Disorders

Says "p," "b," "m," "h" and "w" incorrectly in words (1-2 years)

Says "k," "g," "f," "t," "d" and "n" incorrectly in words (2-3 years)

Produces speech that is unclear, even to familiar people (2-3 years)

STUTTERING

Repeats first sounds of words: "b-b-b-ball" for "ball"

Speech breaks while trying to say a word: "-----boy" for "boy"

Stretches sounds out: "ffffff-farm" for "farm"

Shows frustration when trying to get words out

Voice Disorders

Uses a hoarse or breathy voice

Uses a nasal-sounding voice

HEARING LOSS

Shows a lack of attention to sounds (birth-1 year)

Does not respond when you call their name (7 months-1 year)

Does not follow simple directions (1-2 years)

Shows delays in speech and language development (birth-3 years)

Pulls or scratches at their ears

Has difficulty achieving academically, especially in reading and math

Is socially isolated and unhappy at school

Has persistent ear discomfort after exposure to loud noise, including regular and constant listening to electronics at high volumes

Bay High's Reid Pierce chosen for leadership training

SEA COAST ECHO

Bay High student Reid Pierce has been accepted into this summer's Trent Lott Leadership Institute at The University of Mississippi.

The Summer Leadership Institute for High School Students is a partnership between the University of Mississippi's Lott Leadership Institute and the Division of Outreach's Summer College for High School Students. The goals of the program are to develop leadership skills in young citizens and prepare them for college. In order to achieve these goals, the Summer Leadership Institute brings together student leaders from across the Southeast to earn college credit on the UM campus and to begin the study of leadership.

Included in the program are opportunities to mingle with college administrators, student leaders, and community leaders while participating in current event debates, discussions, and decision-making activities. The program culminates with a one-week trip to Washington, D.C., during which the participants see the federal government in action, hear from national leaders, and tour the nation's Capitol. The ideal outcome is for students who complete the program to return to their high schools and put their new skills to work for the betterment of their own schools and communities.
